The De La Cruz Family

“It is of the LORD’s mercies that we are not consumed, because his compassions fail not. They are new every morning: great is thy faithfulness.” (Lamentations 3:22-23) It’s our fifth month here in the Philippines and our second month on deputation. Even then, we are still amazed at how God is working and moving in hearts and how the people of the churches we have visited have responded to the need. We thank God for your faithfulness in holding the rope for us both in prayers and in financial help. As we travel to the churches here in the Philippines, deep in our hearts we can’t wait to be back to our mission field and reach our people there. Please continue holding the rope for us as we seek more churches with which to partner in sending us back to the field.

Prayer!

Some people say “Prayer can do nothing!” I can say that they never pray, and they have no experience in getting answers to prayer.

There is a little girl in our Christian school her name is Pa Pa. She comes from a divorced family. Her mother could not provide her three children even daily food. Her mom came and gave me the girl and her brother to be adopted. I refused to do so. I said to her, “I will care for your two children, but please do not give me your children. Please come and visit your children as often as you can. Now, they lost their father, but they still have a mother.

Please do not make them to be not only fatherless, but also motherless. I will give you the money you need to visit to the children.” I do the things I can do.

One day, one of my school teachers said to me, “Pa Pa knows that her mother will come here. She said ‘Mom will come!’ If she says so, in the next day her mom comes to us.” The teacher asked me, “Why does she know it?” I replied to him, “I don’t know it you should ask her.”

Her mother works in a far village. She has no phone to talk with her children. It is out of contact. But the little girl prays to God to see her mother when she misses Mom. She prays again and again. Then she says, “Mom will come here!” Every time when she says so, in the next day Mom comes to see her children. Oh, prayers do the things we cannot do!
